

Lutheran
Congregational
Services

Empowering Creative Ministries

Connect with Lutheran Congregational Services for Opportunities to Serve on “God’s work. Our hands.” Sunday 2020!

(For the ELCA resources, including tips for service in the time of COVID-19, go to www.elca.org/dayofservice)

Lutheran Congregational Services, a member of the Liberty Lutheran family of services, builds capacity for congregations and communities to serve the most vulnerable in our communities. Feel free to contact us for ideas and conversation about how we can support your service on “God’s work. Our hands.” Sunday and every day!

We need God’s work and our hands....

We need God’s work and our hands, to bring cheer and hope to residents and staff in our communities who along with others in congregant settings across our country, have missed the fellowship of friends and family.

Make colorful cards, or start a pen pal program for older adults at Artman, Paul’s Run, or The Hearth at Drexel. Our Community Life Directors are happy to connect you with our residents and staff.

We need God’s work and our hands, to care for those experiencing the economic hardships related to COVID-19. People in our communities are experiencing homelessness because of disasters compounded by COVID – 19.

Pack hygiene kits for people experiencing homelessness.

Gather a group to view Volunteer Guidance from Lutheran Disaster Response – COVID 19

Host a fundraiser to raise funds for rental assistance or to donate to Lutheran Disaster Response – Eastern PA.

We need God’s work and our hands, to help those following disasters who are unable to clean out their homes themselves.

Develop a team of people who can help clean out basements and remove debris to help with cleanup from Isaias and other flooding that will no doubt head our way. We must rely on local volunteers as housing volunteers from outside our area in the midst of COVID-19 requires greater expense and risk.

To learn about any of these opportunities, please contact Julia Menzo, Director of Community Outreach and Lutheran Disaster Response – Eastern PA at jmenzo@libertylutheran.org