

Frank is the Director of Accounting for Hillside Village. He is responsible for managing the collection and recording of all pertinent financial data and transactions. He maintains the residents' business files and assists in preparing and monitoring the annual budget.

Frank began his career as a trouble-shooter accountant for Lufthansa German Airlines after graduating from their management academy. Worldwide assignments had him performing a variety of accounting and financial duties, and ultimately brought him to Lufthansa's North American headquarters on Long Island, NY. While there, Frank earned his Master of Business Administration degree from Columbia University.

Subsequent positions found Frank working in Accounting and General Management capacities for both start-up companies and non-profit organizations in the US and abroad. A highlight for Frank was his four-year service with Compassion International in Nairobi, Kenya, directing the administration of their African operations in six East African countries.

Upon his return to the USA, Frank contributed to the success of three small- to mid-size companies as Owner and Manager. He also served as Chief Financial Officer of two Lancaster County, Pennsylvania-based mission organizations. Running the day-to-day operations of Faithful Homes LLC – a company providing group homes for individuals with intellectual disabilities – was Frank's introduction to the field of assisted-living care.

Frank's Yankee wife, Karen, was thrilled when he suggested they move to her "homeland" -- to a New England farm! They are the parents of nine children who are scattered across the US and in China, and are looking forward to adding sheep, goats, chickens and grandchildren to the family.
